

French Algeria

(1924 - 1958)

A republic in Northern Africa. Algeria was a territory of the Ottoman Turkish Empire from 1518-1830, and during this period was one of the centers of the Barbary pirates. France seized the coastal region in 1830 and during the 19th century expanded its rule inland. After World War II, Algerian nationalism increased, and French efforts to retain control resulted in a bitter civil war. In 1958, Algeria became an integral part of France, and French stamps replaced those of the colony. In 1962, Algeria became independent.
