

Andorra Vegueira (1910 -)

In 1902, Juan Laguarda arrived with a new bishop at the Seo de Urgel, who decided to help Andorra to improve their rather poor infrastructure. After linking Andorra with the Seo de Urgel for telegraph (1903) and a year later by telephone, it focuses on the creation of an administration of Correos in the Valleys. The Congress of Rome (1906) is held in which the French had initially proposed to anchor a shared Franco-Spanish postal service for Andorra in the UPU statutes. The General Council finally renounces the institution of the postal administration and both the bishop and the Spaniards see no other solution than to accept this decision.
