

Bulgaria

(1879-)

In 1878, Bulgaria became an autonomous principality under nominal Turkish rule. The Treaty of San Stefano (1878) established a "Greater Bulgaria," which included all Bulgars and encompassed territory that now forms parts of Macedonia, Greece, Romania and Turkey. In 1885, Bulgaria absorbed Eastern Rumelia. In World War II brought the overthrow of the monarchy and the establishment of a communist regime. In 1992 the communist leadership was replaced by democratic opponents.
